HERE'S the POINT

By SPENCE HELD

Saturday afternoon I attended a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Bloomenshine for the new principal of Point Loma High School, Robert F. Heilbron.

Well, I hadn't seen Bob Heilbron since we were high school kids. He has weathered the years well; he's taller and huskier than he was in high school, and is not a mental midget, either. Without stepping out of character and going overboard, I'll hazard the statement that he's got a lot on the ball.

I could see Football Coaches Don Giddings and Bennie Edens grinning to themselves and thinking, "Hey, he looks like a lineman!"

So now I'm a mind reader. Think nothing of it, fellas; just a little poetic license. Which reminds me that I haven't renewed my poet's license this year.

Once a dame phoned me and said, "Mr. Held, I understand you're a poet. Would you be interested in joining the Happy Scribblers?"

Well, no. My hair ain't long enough and I don't own a beret.

I know a young fella who writes poetry, though. He has grown a full beard and hangs out with a bunch of male artistes who sit around and drink tea or something and talk about the ineluctable sodality of the absolute and the stanportis of the glaskin.

Seriously, there's nothing wrong with poetry as it used to be written. But this so-called modern poetry seldom makes sense to me.

Here's a sample from somewhere:

a red white blue pink eagle with ten lizard legs
scratching screaming
at gruesome gallows hanging the abstract mind of al capone.

See where a mountain lion was killed within 30 miles of downtown San Francisco the other day. It was only four or five years ago that one of the big cats was seen on Black Mountain, near San Diego State College.

The State Department of Fish and Game reports that State hunters and trappers accounted for 109 coyotes, 72 bobcats and four mountain lions during March. Private hunters collected bounties on 11 mountain lions.

Personally, I'd hate to see the lions exterminated in California. What if they do knock off an occasional heifer, and reduce the deer population?

Once, when I was a kid and prowling the hills near Descanso, I spotted a mountain lion crouched on a big rock overlooking the road. Before I could raise my trusty .22 he had faded into the brush.

That was a thrill; but if I encountered one now there would be no desire on my part to shoot him. Heck, I don't even own a gun.

Four Fires Here Seem Too Many

Is a firebug on the loose in Ocean Beach?

Sunday night, between 10 and 10:15, two fires broke out here. On Newport Ave., a blaze apparently was set in a trash barrel by the back door of the A. & L. Store. The door was heavily charred.

The other fire, in the 1700 block on Ocean Front, seriously damaged a car and garage.

During the previous week there was a furniture warehouse fire on Niagara Ave., and a trash and garage fire on Muir Ave.

John Eberhardt Talks With Ike In Washington

"I'm really lucky," says John Eberhardt, 16, Point Loma High School senior, who has just returned from a 4-day whirlwind trip to the nation's capitol. The trip was an additional prize to his winning the $2,000 Memorial Scholarship for District VI, given by the Amvets National Service Foundation.

With five other winners from all over the United States, John was flown to Washington, D. C., where he met and talked with President Eisenhower. "He told us that making good grades was important but to remember to have some fun along the way," John said.

"The Amvets saw to it that we had lots of fun on this trip," he continued. "We saw the show, 'South Pacific', in Washington and attended a big party. We visited Mt. Vernon and Arlington.

"In Chicago we visited the Chez Paree where Nat Cole is currently being featured. We were taken to the Key Club, an organization whose members have golden keys that really work in the lock. Then, too, I was introduced and interviewed on the Don McNeil Breakfast Club TV program."

A top student, John also has been awarded the Maud E. Warwick Fund for War Orphans ($700, renewable) and a State of California scholarship of $40 a month for 4 years.

Sensational Run Of Yellowtail But Local Angler Still Leads

With a sensational run of yellowtail, which had all the appearances of being the heaviest in history, well under way at the Coronado Islands, deep sea anglers were rolling up one heavy catch after another this week and the close of the second of the four qualifying periods of the $25,000 Yellowtail Derby was on the docket for Saturday.

The yellows suddenly cut loose last Friday for the benefit of southland anglers taking part in the annual fishing rodeo held by the Ocean Fish Protective Association and Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of San Diego County, and 1196 were taken during the day. Saturday, 709 more were caught and the season's high catch of 1268 was made on Sunday.

Friday's banner catch was highlighted by the taking of 156 by the Betty Lou and Sunday's by a haul of 143 made by a smaller number of anglers aboard the Fisherette.

Under pressure of the high takes, the minimum qualifying weight for the period fishoff next Wednesday, June 23, was rising rapidly, but the Ocean Beach-Point Loma area was assured of strong representation.

For example, the list of 100 high anglers was topped by Oliver P. Snare, 3750 Narragansett, with his 40 pound 14 ouncer. Third on the list was Ed Elmore, 4419 Montalvo, with a 38-8, and Joe Marchesi, of 2724 Azelea, had a 28-8. Other qualifiers from the district included Marshall Malcolm, 24-4; A. C. Penrose, 22-13, and E. L. Fortner, 21-10.

Top Yellowtail taken last week was a 30-3 caught by C. W. McGranahan, Los Angeles, from the Ga Ga. Low weight of the five prize winners was a 25-8.

Qualifying for the third derby period begins Sunday.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Col. Tom Drake placed an advertisement in your paper thanking workers and voters who defeated the sewer bond proposal. It is we, the people of San Diego and the beach areas, who owe Col. Drake and the Sewer Bond Research Committee a great big Thank You for their efforts.

In view of all the organized support of the proposition and to face what appeared at times to be abuse and ridicule from the "experts" and officials, Col. Drake was very civic-minded and unselfish in his successful leadership of opposition to an ill-conceived sewage disposal plan.

Hurrah for Col. Drake and his Committee! Hope Col. Drake runs for City Council again. He would be a good representative for the beach areas on the City Council or Board of Supervisors.

DID YOU KNOW?

Ocean Beach Seventh-day Adventists were commended in a special service Saturday for their part in the church's growth as reported at the Adventist's quadrennial World Conference concluded last week in San Francisco.

Pastor Philip B. Knoche, reporting officially to the Ocean Beach Church, said that "participation by a great majority of members here helped to make possible the unprecedented growth of the Adventist denomination as revealed at the San Francisco World Conference." More than 25,000 persons from 98 countries attended the conference, he said.

Pastor Knoche said his church is operating 181 major medical institutions and hundreds of smaller clinics and medical units.
